About This Game

Now you have a chance to operate your own company....of suicide!

This world is doomed. People don't have enough resource to live. As a genius business holder, you realized that it's a chance to make money! So you rent a small building and began your business - to attract people to jump off your roof.

They will pay for that for your nice service. You made them so happy before they finished their lives.

But you won't be making money peacefully....Zombies are around the corner!

Trigger warning: suicide, zombies

In case you like old school games with 8bit/16bit design and like black humour: try this business simulation... with zombies. Build up a firm that sells deathly jumps from the top of your company building to suicidal customers. Research and build facilities to improve the dark mood and death wish of your clients, run ads and defend against the arriving waves of the undead before they kill your paying customers for free.

The game supports Chinese and English language settings. It's originally written in Chinese. The English translation might be called "Engrish"-like. Which is not really a drawback - I'd say the translation is not too bad and understandable enough, maybe even adding a bit of extra fun. ;-)

Just to clarify: my Chinese would be a lot worse than the game's English, I think the translator did quite well for someone who's not a native speaker, I'm really happy the translation enables me to play this great game! Thank you, great job! :-). Trigger warning: suicide, zombies
